

I believe that every new parent deserves a Doula. In order to stand behind this belief, my goal is to make Birth Work Care more financially accessible with a Sliding Scale, based on an understanding of sacrifice vs hardship.

My Birth Work Care Services are full-circle and tailored to fit your needs whether you are celebrating bringing in new life or grieving the loss of one.

Every New Parent Deserves a Doula

Here's how it works:

Level One

[100% of actual cost]

Our family:

- can comfortably meet all our basic needs (food, housing, transportation)
- owns or leases a car
- owns our home or rents a comfortable accommodation
- has regular access to extended health care benefits (dental, vision, etc)
- can eat out, buy new clothes, & often replaces technology
- can afford an annual vacation or other regular travel
- has an expendable income*

Level Two

[75% of actual cost / 25% discount]

Our family:

- might stress about meeting our basic needs but still regularly meets them
- has access to transportation
- rents a mid-range accommodation
- has adequate employment
- has some debt but can still afford our basic needs
- able to buy some new items and some used items
- can take a vacation every few years without a financial burden
- has some expendable income*

Level Three

[50% of actual cost / 50% discount]

Our family:

- frequently has financial stress & sometimes does not meet our basic needs
- does not have stable transportation
- rents lower-end properties, or our housing is unstable
- is unemployed or under employed
- has no access to savings
- rarely buys new items because we can't afford them
- cannot afford a vacation
- has no or very limited expendable income*

Integrity

For a sliding scale to work it relies on the principles of truthfulness, respect for complexity, and accountability. I do not ask for income verification. I trust my clients to be honest. Community thrives when accountability is a central value, because that is where trust grows.
